UNISPAL

United Nations Information System
on the Question of Palestine

Background The United Nations Information System on the Question of Palestine (UNISPAL) has been developed by the Division for Palestinian Rights of the United Nations Secretariat in response to successive General Assembly mandates. It contains the texts of current and historical United Nations documents relating to the question of Palestine and other issues related to the Middle East situation and the search for peace in the region.

Contents UNISPAL features the texts of United Nations documents in English, including resolutions and decisions of the Security Council, the General Assembly, and other United Nations bodies; documents of the Committee on the Exercise of the Inalienable Rights of the Palestinian People; reports and statements by the Secretary-General; and documents and publications of the various United Nations system entities.

Access UNISPAL can be accessed at <http://unispal.un.org>.

Additional information on the question of Palestine and the United Nations, with links to relevant UNISPAL documents, can be found at the Division's Question of Palestine site at <http://www.un.org/depts/dpa/qpal>. The site includes a brief history of the issue, glossary of related terms, a calendar of upcoming and recent events and an overview of action in the General Assembly, Security Council and other United Nations bodies with regard to the question of Palestine. The site also contains links to relevant United Nations system web sites and a "Civil society" page.
